"I should be delighted," said Marge, in his unvarying manner.

Trumbay hurried to his office, after the briefest of heav takings, and Marge begins to consinct Phil about New York. Soon, however, there developed a marked difference of teste between visitor and guide. Marge wanted to show the young man the Stock Exchange, which to the many minds composing a very large class has no rival attraction except the various institutions on Basckwell's Island; Phil exhibited abject ignorance and indifference regarding the Stock Exchange, but wanted to So through the sub-treasury and assay office—two indiffings in which Marge had never been. Marge made a special first by about the volume man had seen and wanted to make a patriotic four of the tombe of distinguished men of the revolutionary portod. Marge offered to introduce Phil to Russell Sage, but was amazed to learn that the young man that never heard of that distinguished individual. When, however, Gea. Hancook, passing by was causally pointed out by Marge, Phil stopped about and stared respectfully. Marge showed the Field building, but through the trees in front Phil correctly surmised be saw Castle Garden, and desired at once to go there and be made acquainted with the method of receiving and distributing imonce to go there and be made acquainted with the method of receiving and distributing im-

On the Produce Funhange they fairly agreed, On the Produce Exchange they fairly agreed, Marges admitting than in importance it ranked next to the Stock Exchange, while Phil was able to regard it as a great business neces, sity. Pretending to sourch, by Thill's request, for the building in which Washington bade farewell to his generals, Marge succeeded in getting back through Broad street to the vicinity of the Stock Exchange, where he tried to atomy for his failure by reducing out. vicinity of the Stock Exchange, where he tried to atom for he failure by pointing out through a mindow the head of Mr. Heary Clews; hat Find had no eyes except for the statue of Washington, standing, as he knew, on the site of the first president's first imagural. The two men exhibited equal interest on half a dozen successive occasions in "stock tickers," which Marge seemed to know how to find in all sorts of places; but, while Marge looked over the quotations on the lape, Fail stadied the machinery of the Indicator itself.

The strain upon Marge became almost too great for his self control, and he breathedjasigh of relief when Trinity's check struck three. To have left the vicinity of the Stock Exchange earlier would never have occurred.

Exchange earlier would never have occurred Exchange earlier would never have securized to him, but premptly on the strokelps hurried Phil to an elevated railway station and uptown to a stable, where he had his horse and wagou brought out and took Phil for a drive in Central park. Probably there be thought he could be entertained after his own manner, for be had the rains. Driving out Pfith avenue, the two men really became congenial for a little while, for Phil understood horses, and Marge's horse was a good one, and Phil admired him and how of a good horse that would match bim ulcely, and Marge saw a would match him ulcely, and Margo saw a prospect of making a team that he could sell at a large profit, and Phil promised to arrange that Marge should come out and see range that Marge should come out and see the horse.

But even this conversation was broken when Marge pointed out the late residence of A. T. Stewart, for Pail insisted upon moralizing on riches. In the park he asked questions about statues, and about trees and shrubs that were new to bim and equally unknown to Marge, as well as utterly unincresting. Pail also winted a number of facts and figures about the reservoir in the park, and was with difficulty restrained from spolling the drive by visiting the menagerie. known to Margo, as well as utterly uninteresting: Phil also wanted a number of facts and figures about the reservoir in the park, and was with inflicitly restrained from spoiling the drive by visiting the mestagerie.
Finally, when he demanded the exact sites of the various engagements on Manhattan Island between the British and Washington, after the latter had been forced to evacante
what then was New York, Marga shrapidy turned and drove homeward, confessing without the failuset show of shains, but rather with defance, those of shaws, but rather with defance, that he know absolutely nothing about those times. And when the drive ended and the couple separated, the elder man's face broke from its customary calls as he mattered to himself:
"What turn Translay want of the fail."

"What can Training want of that fellow?"

CHAPTER VIL

of the guests at the dinner table that evening suited all at the right of the host, with Lucia dinetly opposite, before him all the while. Marge sat at the right of the hostess, where he could closely ob-serve the young tant, Trainlay's manifer toward the younger guest. He could also note the effect of the young man and his ways upon Mrs. Trainlay; for did he not know how to translate every expression of her face? It was his own fault if he did not, for he had been one of her suitors nearly a quarter of a century before, and the lady had never ceased to be mildly grateful for this compliment, and to repose as much confidence in him as a loyal wifernight without horn grant an acquaintance who without harm grant an acquaintance who never had been offensive.

ithout harm grant an acquaintance who ever had been offensive.

That Mrs. Tramlay wanted Lucia to be me Mrs. Marge was one of these confinces—not spoken, but none the less disability understood—and it had taken all of the metry-bady but the less that arry's advolutes to maintain his position. That Mrs. Tramlay wanted Lucia to be come Mrs. Marge was one of these confi-Marge's advoltages to maintain his position with the family, since Lucia's "coming out," to avoid being brought to propose. Several years earlier he had fully intended to make Lucia his own when she should reach marriageable age, and many and acceptable had been the attentions by which he had endoarsed to accompany them, but Lucia exclaimed: "Phil has been too well brought up to have such bad thabits. He is going to keep me years earlier he had fully intended to make Lucia his even when she should reach marriagement of seah at the time to make a series he had endow cred to secure the first place in the girll's regard. But somehow, as his prospects gradually yet distinctly brightened, the profits of the iron trade as gradually and distinctly waned; Marge was not in the iron trade himself, but Lucia's father was, and bachelors at 35 generally expect something with a bride besides a father's blossing. What the girl's father thought of him Marge had never taken time to wonder, for if he was satisfactory to his fastifious self how could be be otherwise to a ploiding family man! His social position was good; his name had nover been part of seandar; he had no debts; he never horrowed money, and, although a club man, no one had ever seen him drunk or heard of his being fond. '1, roses. If all this did not make a man pet merely irreproachable, but highly desirable as a son-in-law, what did paranteer great!

The arrangement of seats at the table suit.

for d. v., roses. If all third did not make a many representable, the last representable, the last representation of the proposal properties of many and the contract of the proposal properties of the properties

"I should be delighted," said Marge, in his those nut them rapary recovered; assuranting manner, of the table to the head,

"Why, Sundays" said Phil, with some headtation. "Sundays said Phil, with some headtation. "Sunday is—Sunday."

"Quite true," said the hest. "It is in the country, at least; I wish Twas so here."

"Edgar," said Mrs. Tramlay, "Joint make
Mr. Haya think we are heathens. You know we never full to go to service on Sunday."

"Yes," said Tramlay; "we're as good Pharisees as any other family in New York."

"And after that dinner in the woods," continued Lucia, "we went for pond lilles, don't you remember! I do believe I should have been drowned in that awful pond if you hadn't caught me."

Again Marge's brows guthered perceptibly.

"He merely drew her aside from a muddy place," whispered Mrs. Tramlay.

"Well, this is interesting," said Tramlay, at the other end of the table. "Hayn, are there many places cut your way where sally girls are likely to be drowned if they are allowed to roam about without a keeper?"

"Quite a number," said Phil, as seriemaly
as if his best expected a list of the Haynton ponds and their relative depths. "For instance, Beddybanks pond is about".

"Oh, that was the pond where we went expected—that road with the funny name.

"Oh, that was the pond where we went canoeing—that pond with the funny name! My! I wish I was in that very canoe, on that canoning—time point with the tunny name, and year point, this very minute.

"Leteal" exchained Mrs. Tramlay.

"I know twas dreadfally impolite to say before company," said Lacia, with a pretty affectation of penitunce, "but everybody knows I can't be there, and that 'twould be too cold for comfort; so it doesn't do any harm to wish it. And I should like that canos trip over again; shouldn't you, Phill"

"I certainly should," said Phil. "That pond is very pretty in summer, when everything arrowld it is green. There are a great many shades of green there, on account of there being a great variety of trees and busies. But you wouldn't know the place at this season; and I think it's a great deal pretter. The ground—the water, two—is covered with leaves of bright colors; there are a lot of blazing red swamp maples around it, in spots, and three sor four colar trees with poison ley vines"—

"Erit" enoughed Mrs. Trambay

"Ugh!" ejaculated Mrs. Tramlay.

"Poison 'ty leaves, you know, are the clearest crimson in the full," Phil continued, man—if she weren't a ggr."

"I aw some couples out canoeing at Mount Desert, last senson," drawled Marge. "It seemed to me dreadfully dangerous, as well as very macunfortable for the lady."
"Oh, our cance wasn't one of those wretched little things; was it, Phill? Twas a great long pend boat, made of beech bark."
"Birch," suggested Phil.

rch," suggested Phil. "Birch bark, and so heavy that I couldn's upset it, though I tried my hardest "Lucia?" The voice was Mrs. Tramlay's, of course.

of course.

"Why, mamma, the water wasn't knee deep; I measured it with the paddle."

Mrs. Tramley sank back in her chair, and whispered that if the family ever went to the country again she would not dure leave that child out of her sight for a single instant, but she had hoped that a girl 20 years of age would have snown't sure not to imperil bar. would have enough (sease not to imperil bar own life. As for that farmer fellow, she had with the As to mar faring the supposed he was sensible enough to—
"You wouldn't have tried that trick if I mad been in the cames, Miss Tramlay," said

Phil.

"Why not?" asked Lucia. She knew how to look defiant without ceasing to be pretty.

"Well, I would have been responsible for you, you know your instructor in navigation, so to speak, and it's one of the first principles of that art not to take any risks unless something's to be gained by it."

"Good!" exclaimed Tramley.

"Not led." assented Marve.

"Kot bad," assented Marge.
"Not bad," assented Marge.

ther's indulgence.

have more money than taste. Sometimes the artist's name is German, oftener Prench, and occasionally Italian; the figures and background also differ from time to time as to the nationality, and the picture is varia-

she said:

"Find do you remember that dinner you ome made us in the grove by the beach?"

"Indeed I do," said Fiell. "I never shall background also differ from time to time as it forgot it." And he told the fruth, for Lucia's look of horror when he brought from the fire a piece of beard piled high with reasted clams had been one of the few great mental diampers of his life.

"You made us fortis from dried twigs," said Lucia. "I kept mine as a memento; it is hanging over my mantel now, with a bow of blue ribbon around it."

Marge frowned perceptibly, Mrs. Tramlay lay looked horrifiel; but Fhil's face lightened or crickly that Lucia's little heart gave a said. bound.

"Why didn't you evel give a clam hake on Sunday" the only day I could be therefasked Tramlay. The five more for such a meal out of doors than for the best dinner that Delmonico could spread.

"Edgar," gasped Mrs. Tramlay. It did not reach him, though the look that accountained it passed in the full force from the foot of the table to the head.

"Why, Sunday?" said Fhil, with some head tattom. "Sunday is said Fhil, with some head to the head.

"Edgar," gasped the sold force from the foot of the table to the head.

"Why, Sunday?" said Fhil, with some head to the head.

"Edgar," gasped the sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Why, Sunday?" said Fhil, with some head to the head.

"Edgar," gasped the sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Edgar," gasped the sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Edgar," gasped the sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Edgar," gasped the sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Edgar," gasped the sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Edgar," gasped the sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Edgar," gasped the sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Edgar," gasped to sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Edgar," gasped to sold from the foot of the table to the head.

"Edgar," said Mrs. Tramlay, the first the first the revived, on special occasions at compelled him to blush—an act which the young woman perhaps thought prutty, for she immediately imitation it, the limitation being much more graceful and effective than the original. The situation was awkward, and Phil instantly lost his self possession; but not so Lucia.

"Here," she said, turning so as to face the wall opposite that on which the mischief making picture hung, "is papa's favorite picture. He thinks everything of it; but I say it's simply dreadful."

It certainly was. The center of the canvas, which was enormous, was filled with several columns and a portion of the entablature of a ruined Greek temple.

"It is as large as all the other pictures com-bined, you see; all the lines in it are straight, and there but anywhere in it a dress, or a bit of furniture, or even brice-brac."

Phil imagined his bost must have seen other qualities than those named by Lacia, and he seated himself on a sofa to study the picture in detail. Lucia also eat down, and con-tinued:

"Plenty of time for that," the merchant plied. "We'll see him often; eh, Hayn!"
"I shall be delighted," said Phil.

"Suppose you drop him at my club on cour way home?" suggested Marge. "I shall Lucia, with a pretty pout.

Phil looked as if he thought so too. At , Haynton it was the custom, when one went out to dinner—or supper, which was the evening menl—to spend the evening with the entertainer. But objection seemed out of place; the merchant had gone for his hat and coat, and Margo made his adicus and was domning his overcoat at the mirror in the last.

"I'm very sorry to go," said Phil to Lucia.
His eyes wandered about the room, as if to take a distinct picture of it with him; they finally rested on the picture of "The Adieu."

"You shall take my forgiveness with you," said the girl, "if you will solemnly promise never, never to laugh at me again."

"I never will," said Phil, solemnly; then Lucia laughed and offered him her hand. Perhaps it was because Phil had just removed his eyes from "The Adieu" and was himself about to say good-by, that he raised the little about to say good-by, that he raised the little hand to his lip. Fortunately for her own peace of mind, Mrs. Tramlay did not see the act, for she had stepped into the library to speak to her husband; Marge, however, was amazed at what he saw in the mirror, and, a STREET IMPROVEMENTS. amazer at what he saw in the mirror, and, a second or two later, at Phil's entire compos-ure. Lucia's manner, however, puzzled him; for the seemed somewhat disconcerted, and har complexion had suddenly become more brilliant than usual.

[This story was commenced in THE SUNDAY HERALD September 15th, Back numbers can be obtained at this office.]

PEOPLE'S PLATFORM

Convention.

The People and the Liberals Compared-The Pledges Made-Promises That Will

After long and careful discussion the famo should be suppressed, and both male people's numicipal convention has evening adopted the following platform. It speaks be punished with the full rigor of the law.

The People's party of Salt Lake city, in ouvention assembled, present the follow-DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES:

The basis of free government is the right of the people to govern themselves.

The object of the Federal constitution is to secure a free government to the people of the United States, wherein all persons shall be protected in life, liberty and property and in the enjoyment of overy right essential to their happiness and not incon-sistent with the rights of others.

in pursuance of its provisions.

which was enormous, was filled with several columns and a portion of the entabliture of a ruined Greek temple.

"It is as large as all the other pictures combined, you see, all the lines in it are straight."

The People's party has always upheld these principles. It has maintained the right of local self government. It has contended for the freedom and purity of electrical properties and purity of electrical properties. tended for the freedom and purity of elec-tions. It has opposed class legislation. It has promoted honesty in all branches of the public service. It has maintained equality rights of mankind, and will ever labor to by justice, prudence and fidelity. Taxa-tion has been uniform: and lower in Utah than in any other territory. There have "There is color in it, to be sure; bits of the columns where the light is most subdued are as lovely as—as a real Turkish rug."

Much though Phil had endeavored to keep himself in communication and sympathy with the stronger sentiments of the world outside of Haynton, he had never realized even the outer edge of the mysteries and estancies of alteration of old rugs. So Lucia's comparison started him into laughter. The girl seemed surprised and estancies of surprised and estancies of the minute laughter. The girl seemed surprised and estancies of the minute laughter. The girl seemed surprised and estancies of the minute laughter. The girl seemed surprised and estancies of the minute laughter. The girl seemed surprised and estancies of the minute laughter. The girl seemed surprised and estancies of the minute laughter into the extreme depths of contribution.

"They your perdon," be murmured, quickly." It was all because of my ignorance. We haven't your "Devicts of the minute laughter into the extreme depths of contribution while violating its framemental truths. It arrogates to its members the honored name of Americans while seeking to deprive a large class of the minute laughter.

There is color in it, to be sure; bits of the columns where the light is most subdued are as lovely as local to the property have been secure, morning the doty by Hood's Sarsaparilla. That tired foody by Hood's Sarsaparilla the body by Hood's Sarsaparilla. That tired foody by Hood's Sarsaparilla the body by Hood's Sarsaparilla. That tired foody by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The timed body by Hood's Sarsaparilla. That tired food the purpled, entirely overcome. The blood to the purpled, entirely overcome. The blood by Hood's Sarsaparilla. That tired food property have purpled, entirely overcome. The blood

"I beg your pardon," be murmured, quick [5], "It was all because of my ignorance. We haven't any Turkish rugs at Haynton, nor any other rugs, except these we lay on floors and use very much as if they were carpets. I ought to have known better, though; for I remember that in eastern stories, where the rare possessions of oriental kings and chiefs are spoken of, rugs are always classed with jewels and silks and other beautiful things. Fleazs forgive us." rare possessions of oriental kings and chiefs are spoken of, trugs are always classed with jowels and silks and other beautiful things. Please forgive ms."

Half in earnest, bull protending, Lucia continued to appear offended. Phil repeated his confession, and embarged his explanation. In his carnestness he leaned toward berillucia dropped her head a little. Marge, who had finished his cigar, entered the parlor at that instant and raised his eyelorows—a more tion more significant in a man of his temperament than a tragic start would have been to ordinary flesh and blood. Lucia started and showed signs of embarrassment when she could no longer ginore his presence; Phil merely looked up, without seeming at all discomposed.

"I think, my dear," said Tramlay to his wife, who had been turning the backs of a magazine, "that I'll take our friend around to the club with me for half an hour, just to show him how eity men squander their time and keep away from their families. I won't be long gone."

"Oh, papar, right after dimer? We've scarcely seen Phil yet, to ask him any questions."

"Pleuty of time for that," the merchant

'Liberal" party means class disfranchise ment, excessive taxation, official extra-vagance, and laxity in public social regula-tions, and that the supremacy of the People's party means equality before the People's party means equality before the "Good" thanks; very kind of you. He'll see some men nearer his own age; all our members are middle aged and stupid."

"I think it's real mean of you both," said order.

"That the progress and improvements de-

That the progress and improvements de-manded by the growth of the city may be secured, we declare that:

all.
"I'm very sorry to go," said Phil to Lucia.
Is eyes wandered about the room, as if to take a distinct nicture of it with him they sanitation—sewers for the business and thickly peopled portions of the city, deodor-ization and removal of focal and all kinds

4 — The grades and lines of all streets, water-ditches and sidewalks should be permanently established; the corners of Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

No. 1. This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough. Coop, and Brunchitis, while it's wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since it's first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If your Lungs are sore, Chest or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. Smith & Co.

Remarkable Rescue.

All railrends should conform to the ime as variavaria"Ant The Document Adopted By The block of the streets, which should be kept graded up to the top of the ralls and the street crossings of all railroads should be planked the full width of the streets and sidewalks.

We plodge ourselves to lend our aid and influence to induce all railroad companies now here to join in the erection and use of DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES, to have their freight depots on the outskirts of the city.

> 8-The police force should be neat, uniformed and be extended so as to give protection to every municipal ward.

SUPPRESSION OF VICE. 9-Gambling houses and houses of Hi LESCON.

10-We are opposed to the traffic in fluor and favor the highest license practicable, and the strictest execution of the laws for its regulation.

ENPORCEMENT OF ORDINANCES. 11 -All the ordinances of the city should

e vi o tudy enforced. TAXATION AND PUBLIC DEST

12-Taxes should be equal and uni-orm, and limited to the necessities of municipal government economically adminissistent with the rights of others.

We regard the Constitution as a sacred charter of human liberty; we revere its principles and declare our unwavering allegiance to the government and laws made in nursuppers of its residue.

It is just that future inhabitants who will asses the human state of the city.

will enjoy the benefits of public improve-ments should assist in bearing the burdens before the law. It has been characterized promote universal liberty, civil, political

ALL THE LEADING HORSEMEN USE NO OTHER REMEDY.

For Sale by Druggists and Dealers. THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Ballimore, Md.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. Ausum, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Englishment of the control of the co THE CENTAGE COMPANY, 77 Murray Street, N. Y.

Bailey & Sons.

RELIABLE GROCERY, GRAIN & SEED HOUSE

OPPOSITE THE POSTOFFICE,

FRESH GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS. -consisting or-

RED TOP,
TIMOTHY,
WHITE DUTCH CLOVER COMMON MILLET, HUNGARIAN,
RENTUCKY BLUEGR'SS, LUCERNEOR ALFALFA
CHOICE MIXED LAWN
GRASS,
ITALIAN RYE GRASS,
JOHNSON GRASS OF Aris
bian Millet,

ALSO A LARGE STOCK OF GRAIN SACRS AND TWINE.

PREMENDA ON STEAS AND SEED,
ORCHARD GRASS,
ORCHARD GRASS,
ALSO A LARGE STOCK OF GRAIN SACRS AND TWINE.

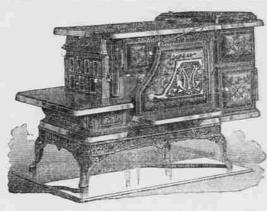

PREMENDA ON STEAS AND SEED,
ORCHARD GRASS,
ALSO A LARGE STOCK OF GRAIN SACRS AND TWINE.

Remember, Our Prices are as Low as the Lowest.

WM.RESOR & CO'S

Justiv Celebrated

Monitor Stoves and Ranges.

- FOR SALE BY -

TURNGREN.
for Salt Lake city, corner Second Z. C. M. I. and all its Branches.

Co-op. Wagon & Machine Co.

Celebrated  ssass Sell the

RUSSELL * SEPARATORS!

And Horse Powers.

THEY ARE

To Thresh and Clean all Kinds of Seeds. Have Features in their Construction that Make Them be permanently established; the corners of blocks and grades of streets indicated by suitable corner-stones, and all improvements made to conform thereto. The streets and sidewalles should be permanently graded and improved, with good material, as fast as possible upon an equitable and definite plan, and all bridges and culverts should be the full width of the streets and sidewalls.

Walter A. Wood Single Apron Binders.